

Solagi

Caparra e Siciliani

Caparra and Siciliani are two families with ancient agrarian traditions. Each one producing wine since the 19th century, they joined forces in 1963 to cultivate and promote the indigenous grapes of Cirò. Here the contrast between sea and mountains is striking, and the vineyards breathe in the continuous sea breeze.

Description

Solagi, named after a medieval look tower overlooking the Jonic Sea in Cirò Marina, is a great example of the Gaglioppo character and complexity. This wine is produced from a selection of the best grapes after harvest and aged both in Stainless steel, Cement Vats and Big Barrel before being assembled
